

The Chair of International Economics is hiring a Student Assistant to support its research and teaching activities for 16 hours per month.

We are looking for students of economics and business with above-average study performance, good English skills, and an interest in the topics of international economics (international trade, finance, and migration). A Bachelor's degree in economics would be ideal (but is not required) for the position. A strong background in international economics (in particular international trade) and experience working with statistical software (e.g. R or Stata) are an advantage.

If you are interested, please send your application (including a short cover letter, your CV, current transcript, and degree certificates if applicable) as a single pdf file to Prof. Peter Eppinger (peter.eppinger@uol.de) with the subject line "Student Assistant International Economics". We review applications on an ongoing basis until the position is filled.
