

International Diversity Forum on Teacher Education

12, 19 and 26 November 2021

online

The International Diversity Forum on Teacher Education will be concerned with different aspects of teaching and learning in contexts characterized by diversity and difference. It will particularly focus on language in education, the inclusive classroom and specific aspects of learning to teach in schools. Workshops will also discuss the effects of the pandemic-induced turn towards online media on teacher education.

The Diversity Forum is addressing BA and MA students of teacher education from the Universities of Groningen (Netherlands) and Oldenburg (Germany) and from Nelson Mandela University (South Africa).

More information and how to register see uol.de/en/lehramtinternational/international-diversity-forum-2021.